MRS. GILMAN IS AT DEATH'S DOOR

Mother of Murdered Girl Lies at Death's Door and Mystery Deepens.

CURTIS IS STILL IN JAIL

BROTHER AND SISTER OF DONA PLEAD NOT GUILTY WHEN CHARGED AS BEING ACCESSORIES TO THE CRIME.

[Publishers' Press.]

Dayton, Ohio, Dec. 11.—Collins and Fayne Gilman are under arrest for alleged complicity in the murder of their sister, Dona Gilman. Both pleaded not guilty. Fayne Gilman was not locked up but was permitted to remain at the home of a friend. Collins was committed to jail.

Collins and Fayne will be given a preliminary hearing Friday.

Nothing developed at the arraignment which would indicate what evidence the detectives have against the accused. They say they have good evidence, but decline to discuss the details.

No motive members of the family could have for desiring the death of the girl has been disclosed. Cross-examined times innumerable since the tragedy about three weeks ago, they have adhered faithfully to the same straightforward story.

Remarkable, probably without parallel in criminal annals, are the assembled developments of the Gilman case. Two persons, an acknowledged degenerate and a dying woman, the mother of the victim, are charged with the murder of Dona Gilman.

David Curtis, who confessed to the crime, is held without bail in the Montgomery county jail. Mrs. Kate Gilman is in the eyes of the law, as much a prisoner as Curtis, though she lies barely conscious to a hospital.

Collins Gilman, 18, brother of Dona Gilman, is confined in a cell almost beside that occupied by Curtis, charged with being an accessory after the fact to his sister's murder.

Fayne Gilman, sister of Dona, is also charged as an accessory to the murder, but is not a prisoner, although technically under arrest.

As soon as Fayne and Collins Gilman heard of the charges made against them they went to the bedside of their mother and were with her when the charge was made against the dying woman.

When Curtis appears for his preliminary trial he will have two witnesses who will swear to an alibi for him. The officers who made the arrest are still firm in the belief that they have the right man.

WHAT IT MEANS TO "STAY" A FINE

When Friends Say They Will Pay Prisoner's Fine They Must Make Good.

NO "HEDGING" ABOUT IT

CONVICTED MAN CANNOT GO TO JAIL TO SAVE HIS SURETIES ALTHOUGH HE MAY BE INCLINED TO DO SO.

There are numerous erroneous impressions that prevail with reference to the operation of the city police court, but perhaps the most widespread ignorance is with reference to the payment of fines that are imposed.

Recently a man was arrested in Richmond on a minor charge and he was convicted. His fine was "stayed," or in other words guaranteed by two friends. This arrangement implied that the convicted person would in the "fulness of time" liquidate with the city government for the benefit of the school fund, but the "fulness" even developed into matured ripeness, and still no settlement. The sureties on the fine were communicated with and one of them saw to it that the convicted man was brought to the city hall and surrendered to the authorities. He was locked up.

The sureties felt that they had performed their full duty and innocently enough dismissed the incident from their minds until the police court attaches served notice that the fine against the man in question must be paid. In answer the sureties declared that they had turned over the convicted man and that he could be sent to jail "to lay out the fine."

Were Unfamiliar With Statutes.

Until then these men were not aware that the Indiana statutes do not provide that fines can be "laid out." The men in question were called upon to settle the fine, the payment of which they had guaranteed weeks ago. They settled. There have been numerous similar incidents in the city police court and they appear to be growing in frequency.

When a man is fined in the city police court, the record of this fact goes on the docket and the fine is not liquidated even if the individual "lays out" a term in the county jail. The imposition of a fine does not render the convicted person clear of indebtedness. It is of course the rule that where men are convicted in police court and do not have money to liquidate that they are not pressed for payment after they have been released from jail, but technically speaking they still owe the police court. Where fines are "stayed" the payment must be made, even though the convicted person finally is remanded to jail because of failure to meet the obligation which his bondsmen guaranteed.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS.

The Juniors of High School are busy themselves making ready for the annual banquet for the Senior class. The present class expects to out do all former classes in the way of a banquet and the affair, which comes off on the 21st of this month at the Odd Fellows' Hall, will be quite swell as well as very novel.

A committee of decorators will be appointed in the near future to decorate the hall and to hang up the twelve foot black and gold banner which has on it a large '08.

The High School football players will have their pictures taken at the school building as soon as the weather becomes clear enough. The players have not yet been awarded their "Rs" as a suitable sample has not yet been received.
